

The first part of the report is devoted to a general survey of the situation in the country. It is followed by a detailed study of the economic situation, and then a study of the social situation. The report concludes with a series of recommendations for the future.

1. The first part of the report is devoted to a general survey of the situation in the country.

2. It is followed by a detailed study of the economic situation, and then a study of the social situation.

3. The report concludes with a series of recommendations for the future.

4. The first part of the report is devoted to a general survey of the situation in the country.

5. It is followed by a detailed study of the economic situation, and then a study of the social situation.

6. The report concludes with a series of recommendations for the future.

7. The first part of the report is devoted to a general survey of the situation in the country.

8. It is followed by a detailed study of the economic situation, and then a study of the social situation.